

Acceptable Use of COSO Materials

The Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission, COSO, is dedicated to providing thought leadership through the development of comprehensive frameworks and guidance on internal control, enterprise risk management, and fraud deterrence designed to improve organizational performance and oversight and to reduce the extent of fraud in organizations. These acceptable use guidelines are designed to encourage wide use of the COSO materials while protecting the integrity of the guidance and COSO's intellectual property rights. Over the course of many years, COSO has invested considerable resources, both financially and through the time/expertise of volunteer subject matter experts worldwide, into the ongoing development of COSO guidance and materials. These guidelines will help ensure that COSO is well positioned to continue its support and enhancement of the COSO materials for many years to come—an outcome that will ultimately benefit individual users, the entities for which they work, and the profession as a whole.

Please note, these guidelines apply to the original English version of the COSO materials only. Translations may be subject to other terms. You should contact the publisher of such translated works with questions.

General Principles

This guidance covers acceptable use of all COSO publications ("COSO Materials"). This includes thought papers, reports, and other works COSO makes available for free download at its website (www.coso.org) as well as for-sale texts available for individual sale through multiple channels or via license.

Please be advised that the COSO Materials are protected by copyright under U.S. and other national/international laws. COSO has sole rights, title, and interest in the COSO service mark and the COSO materials. Any use of the COSO Materials that is not described herein is unauthorized, unless written permission or specific licensure has been secured. Unauthorized uses include, for example: publicly displaying (online or otherwise); copying; distributing; creating derivative works or inserting into, processing with, or displaying through any commercial or non-commercial product, including software. These uses will constitute copyright infringement and a violation of COSO's rights.

When use of the COSO Materials is permitted as described below or when written permission is granted by COSO, full source attribution is required in the following format:

name of publication, © [year of publication] Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (COSO). All rights reserved. Used with permission.

You may use the word "COSO" in marketing and promotion material, either in print or online, to truthfully describe products and services. The "COSO" mark may not be used in any product name, domain name, individual, or enterprise certification/ certificate or to suggest sponsorship or affiliation with COSO, without COSO's prior written permission which may be obtained from contacting COSO. The COSO logo may not be used in marketing or promotional material, without prior written permission from COSO.

  - COSO is acknowledged as the source of the material; and
  - The full source attribution above is included in each instance.
